KITCHEN DESIGN

Planning for Kitchen Remodeling? Need help choosing the right kitchen layouts for your home? We can help, Call 9315423001, 8411812623 or visit www.easyhomesolutions.co.in for a complimentary design consultation with one of our Renowned Design Gurus. In India There Are So Many Types Of Kitchen Design Are Available Like Classic, Coastal, Farmhouse, Industrial, Modern Traditional Craftsman, Or Double Countertop, So Many Others But Normally We Use Six.

Six types of kitchen design :-

1. One-wall Kitchen
2. Galley Kitchen
3. U-Shaped Kitchen
4. L-Shaped Kitchen
5. Island Kitchen
6. Peninsula or G-Shaped Kitchen.

Island Kitchen

more work and storage space to a kitchen. You can utilize the island for cabinet space, appliances, the sink, countertops, a bar counter by arranging it with Bar Stools, or a place to eat. An island has the power to evolve L-shaped kitchens into a horseshoe layout, and one walled kitchen into galley styled ones.

1. One Wall Kitchen

kitchen is trendy in studio flats and loft apartments because it utilizes minimum space. The layout places all three work centers in a straight line. The cabinets and appliances get mounted on a single wall. However, it is never a good idea to place the workstations side by side, as you wouldn't have any free countertop space between them. Modern straight kitchens sometimes also include an island, making it a bit like the galley layout.

Galley Kitchen

kitchen, this is one of the most efficient kitchen layouts. It is ideally suited for small spaces and serves as a perfect one-cook kitchen. It comprises two parallel walls opposite each other with a walkway in between, which is why it's called as a walkthrough kitchen. That makes it easier to design cabinets, as you no longer have to concern yourself with corner cabinets. If you have ample space, you can also include an island, as shown in the picture.

U-Shaped Kitchen

horseshoe kitchen layout, this style has three walls of cabinets and appliances. Choose this layout if you have large kitchen space or are likely to spend a lot of your time in the kitchen. It provides the additional floor, counters and cabinet space, creating an efficient work triangle that helps save time and energy when cooking meals.

L-Shaped Kitchen

homes, it serves you best if you have small floor space. The layout utilizes two walls in an L-shape for cabinets, countertops, and appliances, which provide an efficient design for the integration of the three workstations. The design is efficient enough for you to allow in an engineer to fix or repair the appliances. It wouldn't be long enough before the inevitability of calling in an engineer to look at an appliance befalls, in which case, you'll have to know more from www.easyhomesolutions.co.in If you have space left over, then you can also accommodate a small dining table or an island as suited to your needs.

Peninsula or G-Shaped Kitchen

mainly contain a connected island. It provides a free-standing workspace that can serve as a countertop, storage or eating area. Unlike an island, the freestanding space is accessible from three sides. Other than that, the peninsula kitchen offers all the benefits of an island kitchen while utilizing less floor space in comparison.

We hope that this post has helped you in deciding upon a kitchen layout best suited to your home and needs. If you still aren't able to reach a decision, contact us right now, and we will help you select the best layout for your kitchen.

kitchen pantry Design

The kitchen pantry existed in the medieval times when food and supplies were kept in specific rooms. A larder stored meat, the buttery stored alcohol and the pantry — from the French word Panettiere, meaning bread sack — stored bread. It was also where any food preparation with bread was carried out. In the 19th century, England and America incorporated the kitchen pantry into their homes. The turn of the 20th century, however, made it obsolete because of the introduction of better food-storing methods. The pantry has been reduced to a floor-to-ceiling or vertical cabinets.

There Are Some Different Types Of Pantry Are:-

Location Corner

Slide-Out

Wall

Built-In Cabinet

Butler's Pantry

DINING ROOM

the place that they entertain guests and share family meals. Because of its importance to the home, it's important to get the design of any dining room exactly right. All well designed dining rooms pay close attention to the space available. When you are trying to place tables and chairs, lighting, and storage cabinets, space is a major consideration. Good designs also show impeccable harmony. Everything works together, from the ceiling lighting to the flooring, to the walls and the table. However, it's important to note that everyone's tastes will differ. There is no one perfect dining room, just an endless variety of interior designs that fit the passions of the people they serve.

There Are Some Dining Ideas Are :-

- ❖ Country style dining rooms
- ❖ Modern dining rooms
- ❖ Minimalist dining rooms
- ❖ Scandinavian style dining rooms

Classy Crockery Cabinet Designs

Women have a fascination for collecting and showcasing crockery. A crockery unit or a crockery cabinet is the best place where you can store as well as display the crockery pieces you use in the house. A crockery cabinet can be placed in the kitchen, living room or dining room, depending on the space and use. Therefore, we have some classy crockery cabinet designs for you.

A crockery cabinet should have an ample number of shelves, racks, and drawers. In short, a good storage capacity to accommodate all kinds of crockery. Hence, before getting a crockery unit designed, you must check your chinaware and get it done according to the requirement.

5 Types Of Crockery Unit:-

1. Wall-mounted Crockery Cabinet
2. China Cabinets
3. Crockery Sideboards
4. Crockery Drawers
5. Modular Crockery Units.

Wardrobes

The wardrobe is one of the prime furniture pieces in a bedroom, second only to the bed. Everybody has their own idea of having the perfect wardrobe. Some prefer bare minimum, while others want to have massive wardrobes. Luckily, there are enough choices to satisfy all our needs for organizing, storage and aesthetics. Well designed modern wardrobes can double your space utilization while giving your home that contemporary European look.

This is an overview of the six types of wardrobes. Which of these will suit your needs.

1. Sliding Door Wardrobe
2. Hinge Door Wardrobe
3. L Shaped Wardrobe
4. Walk-in-Wardrobe
5. Wardrobe with a Mezzanine Loft
6. SLOPED WARDROBE

Sliding Door Wardrobes are a modern take on the classic hinge door wardrobe styles. With changing times and having a non fussy style of “almirah”, it is an ideal choice with a contemporary look. As per the available width, sliding door wardrobe can be designed with two, three or four doors. The sliding doors glide smoothly on a track. For effective use of the bedroom space this is the best choice, as it occupies less space. No more pull-out wardrobe-doors on hinges. This enables more free space in the room. The sliding doors can be made in different types of sliding systems and with a wide variety of materials creating endless possibilities. You can also add an overhanging loft to store your large size luggage/ suitcases and other stuff that is used only once in a while.

Hinge Door Wardrobe

Hinge Door Wardrobes are the most common and traditional types of wardrobes. It's very simple in design and opens with a hinged door. With variety of colors in different textures and finishes, one can easily find an ideal choice to go with the décor of one's room. With bedrooms getting smaller the space required to open the hinge door near a bed, can become a constraint.

L shaped wardrobes are also known as “Corner Wardrobes”. They can be the ideal solution for the maximum utilization of a bedroom corner. They utilize the corners of the room which generally are otherwise wasted space. The sliding doors (most preferred door style) for such fitted L shaped wardrobe provides great style as well as storage potential, making it a popular choice.

Walk-in-Wardrobe

Walk-in wardrobes are the dream wardrobe of most of us but only a lucky few can afford it. They are the epitome of luxury with massive storage space for clothes and other accessories. Coupled with organizing accessories they offer a great opportunity for creating a highly organized space. A well designed space for everything. For fashion conscious people who love to collect variety of opulent items it is the ideal choice. A standard walk-in-wardrobe will have hanging and storage space on all the three sides. It works best if you have an unused room or a decent amount of spare space which then gets separated with another pair of doors making it an ideal walk-in-closet. Despite being an aspirational choice for many (how are we supposed to have extra space in today's small apartments), this is a good value option with marginal extra cost.

Wardrobe with a Mezzanine Loft

Due to the slanting nature of the mezzanine loft roof, it can be taxing to find appropriate wardrobe designs for loft or attic rooms. However with some clever inventiveness and sliding doors styling one can find the ideal mezzanine loft storage solution, making great use of the otherwise dead space beneath the mezzanine loft roof.

Sloping wardrobe

doors are the ideal solution for sloped ceilings, attic bedrooms and under the stairs. They offer a versatile way of creating useful storage space. For e.g.: under the staircase, hence making the most of a wasted space.

CEILING DESIGN

We know, the last thing you probably think about when you consider designing or remodeling a home is the ceiling. To most people, ceilings are just there. We know they are important, but never consider them beyond being happy we have one.

STAIRCASE

If you are looking for inspiration for designing your staircase, Easy Home Solutions can help you. Here you will find clever storage solutions, lighting ideas and inspiration for decorating and making the most out of your staircase. Without leaving the website you can see many different options for your hallways, corridors and stairs. You can also create an idea book with all of your favorite pictures, and by saving it you can have something to reference when you begin designing and decorating your home.

Many Indians enjoy the use of more neutral colors, as they maintain a more open and bright staircase. However, there are endless ideas when it comes to stairs. Some popular options for staircases are spiral staircases and minimalist floating stairs. While people in the hilly areas of North India opt for a more rustic look with wooden stairs, central and west Indian cities prefer an industrial look with metal stairs and railings.

Most Indian homeowners with a staircase occupying the most prominent point in a home, particularly those with open plan layouts, expect it to be perfect. Many people dream of wide staircases or even spiral staircases with handrails that are the focal point of an entrance hallway. However, this is definitely not the reality of most home owners. The ideal staircase depends completely on you and the style of the rest of your house. If your house has a rustic style, a wooden and more traditional handrail would be more suitable. However, if you prefer a minimalist style, having a white staircase can be much better suited to your style.

T.V UNIT

The most important decision regarding a new TV stand will be the general design that works best for you and your home. This is the specific shape, structure, and function that you will likely utilize for years, so finding the right design is paramount.

There Are Six Types Of TV Unit Are :-

1. Open Shelving
2. Console
3. Hutch
4. Cabinet
5. Swivel
6. Floating
7. Entertainment Centre
8. Stand With Audio Towers

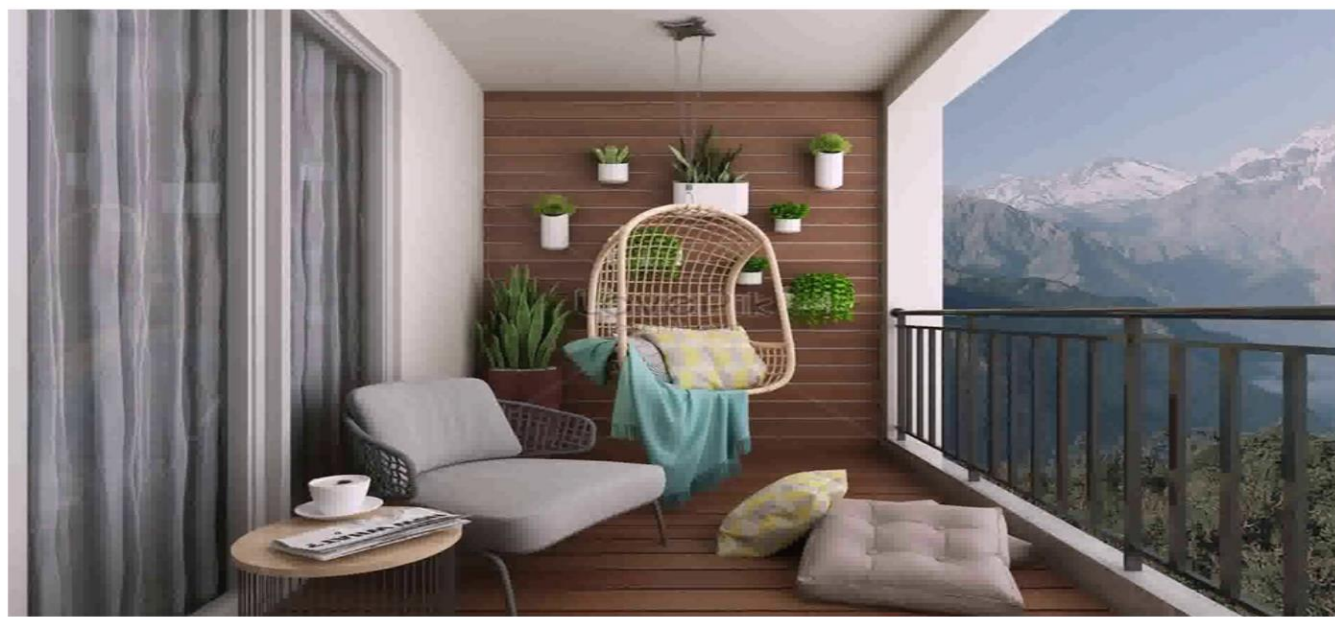

The floating design is a wall-mounted unit that allows for completely open floor space and a clean, unobtrusive look. These contain shelving and, often, cord concealment. TVs can be stood on top, or wall-mounted themselves above the floating stand. The cabinet TV stand design comes in two major flavors: one more akin to the console models, with closed cabinetry below an open surface upon which the television sits, and one not unlike a standard armoire, with drawers set below a fully enclosed large space where the screen can be hidden away when not in use.

Balcony design

If you have very little space for a garden, but love the look of a Mediterranean garden, we recommend using vertical planters to add that touch of green that your home needs so much. This way, you can use a wall of your balcony or terrace or even the inner courtyards, which are usually a part of Mediterranean style homes, to hang beautiful aquamarine, terracotta, olive-green or pastel-coloured pot and planters. It will look lovely.

EXTERIOR DESIGN

When it comes to designing the house of our dreams, we usually tend to think about the interior design and decoration and overlook the fact that at the end of the day it is the exterior of the home we will drive up to. Remember that it is the façade which the friends, neighbors and even the strangers see when visiting you or just passing through it. A spectacular exterior will certainly stand apart and reflects the overall style of the home. It is also an introduction of your aesthetic style to the world. Have a look at these stunning designs of home exterior for ideas and inspiration.

There Are Some Exterior Design Names Are :-

1. Colonial style façade
2. Open brick façade
3. Mushroom tone façade
4. Hanging home façade
5. Innovative façade
6. Small town façade
7. Contrasting façade
8. Vertically high façade
9. Royal façade
10. Layered façade
11. Minimalist façade
12. Haveli style façade
13. One statement piece in the façade
14. Green façade
15. Bold and beautiful façade
16. Contrasting façade
17. Elegantly simple façade
18. Modern and elegant facade

1. Modern and elegant façade The fluidity of toughened glass protected and supported by the strength of concrete is giving this modern facade of house of glass a chic and contemporary look and feel. Dominated by glass it brings the nature and beauty of beautiful garden right inside the home.

Contrasting façade The designer grills of metal on one part of the exterior and long and wide glass windows dominating the other part bring the two contrasting building materials together and bind them like a marriage made in heaven. The delicate appeal of glass is well complimented by the sturdiness of metal and light emancipating from both parts brings an enchanting feel into the façade.

The delicate appeal of glass is well complimented by the sturdiness of metal and light emancipating from both parts brings an enchanting feel into the façade.

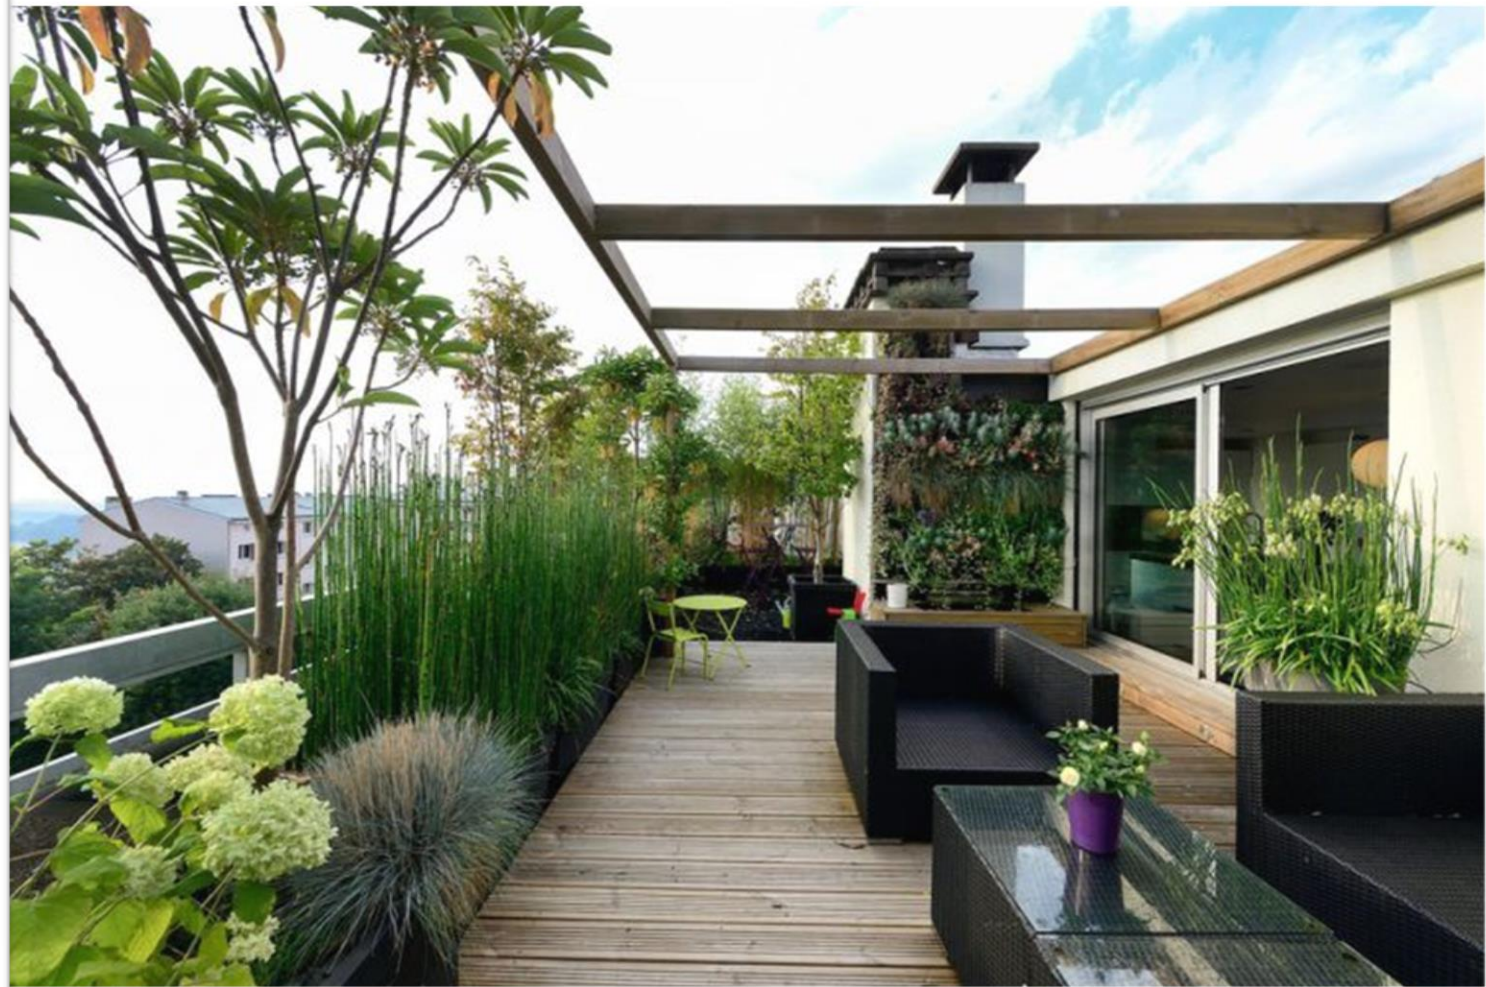

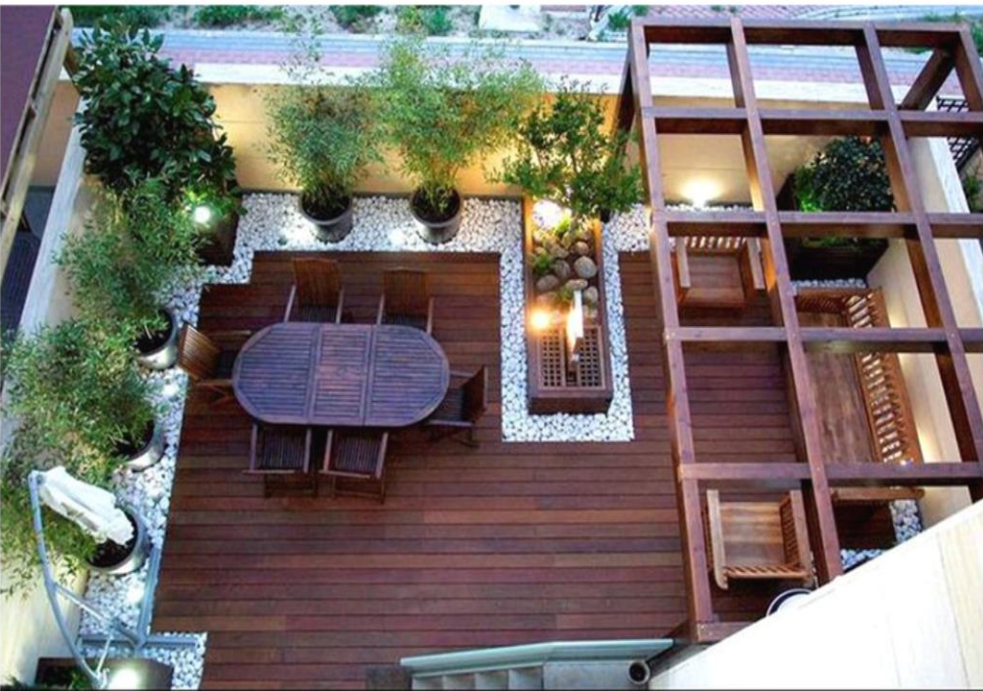

Disconnected façade The exterior of this house is disconnected to get connected. The four protruding concrete arms of the house merge with the glass house at the center, giving it a unique look and feel. It's a symphony created through architectural design.

GARDEN DESIGN

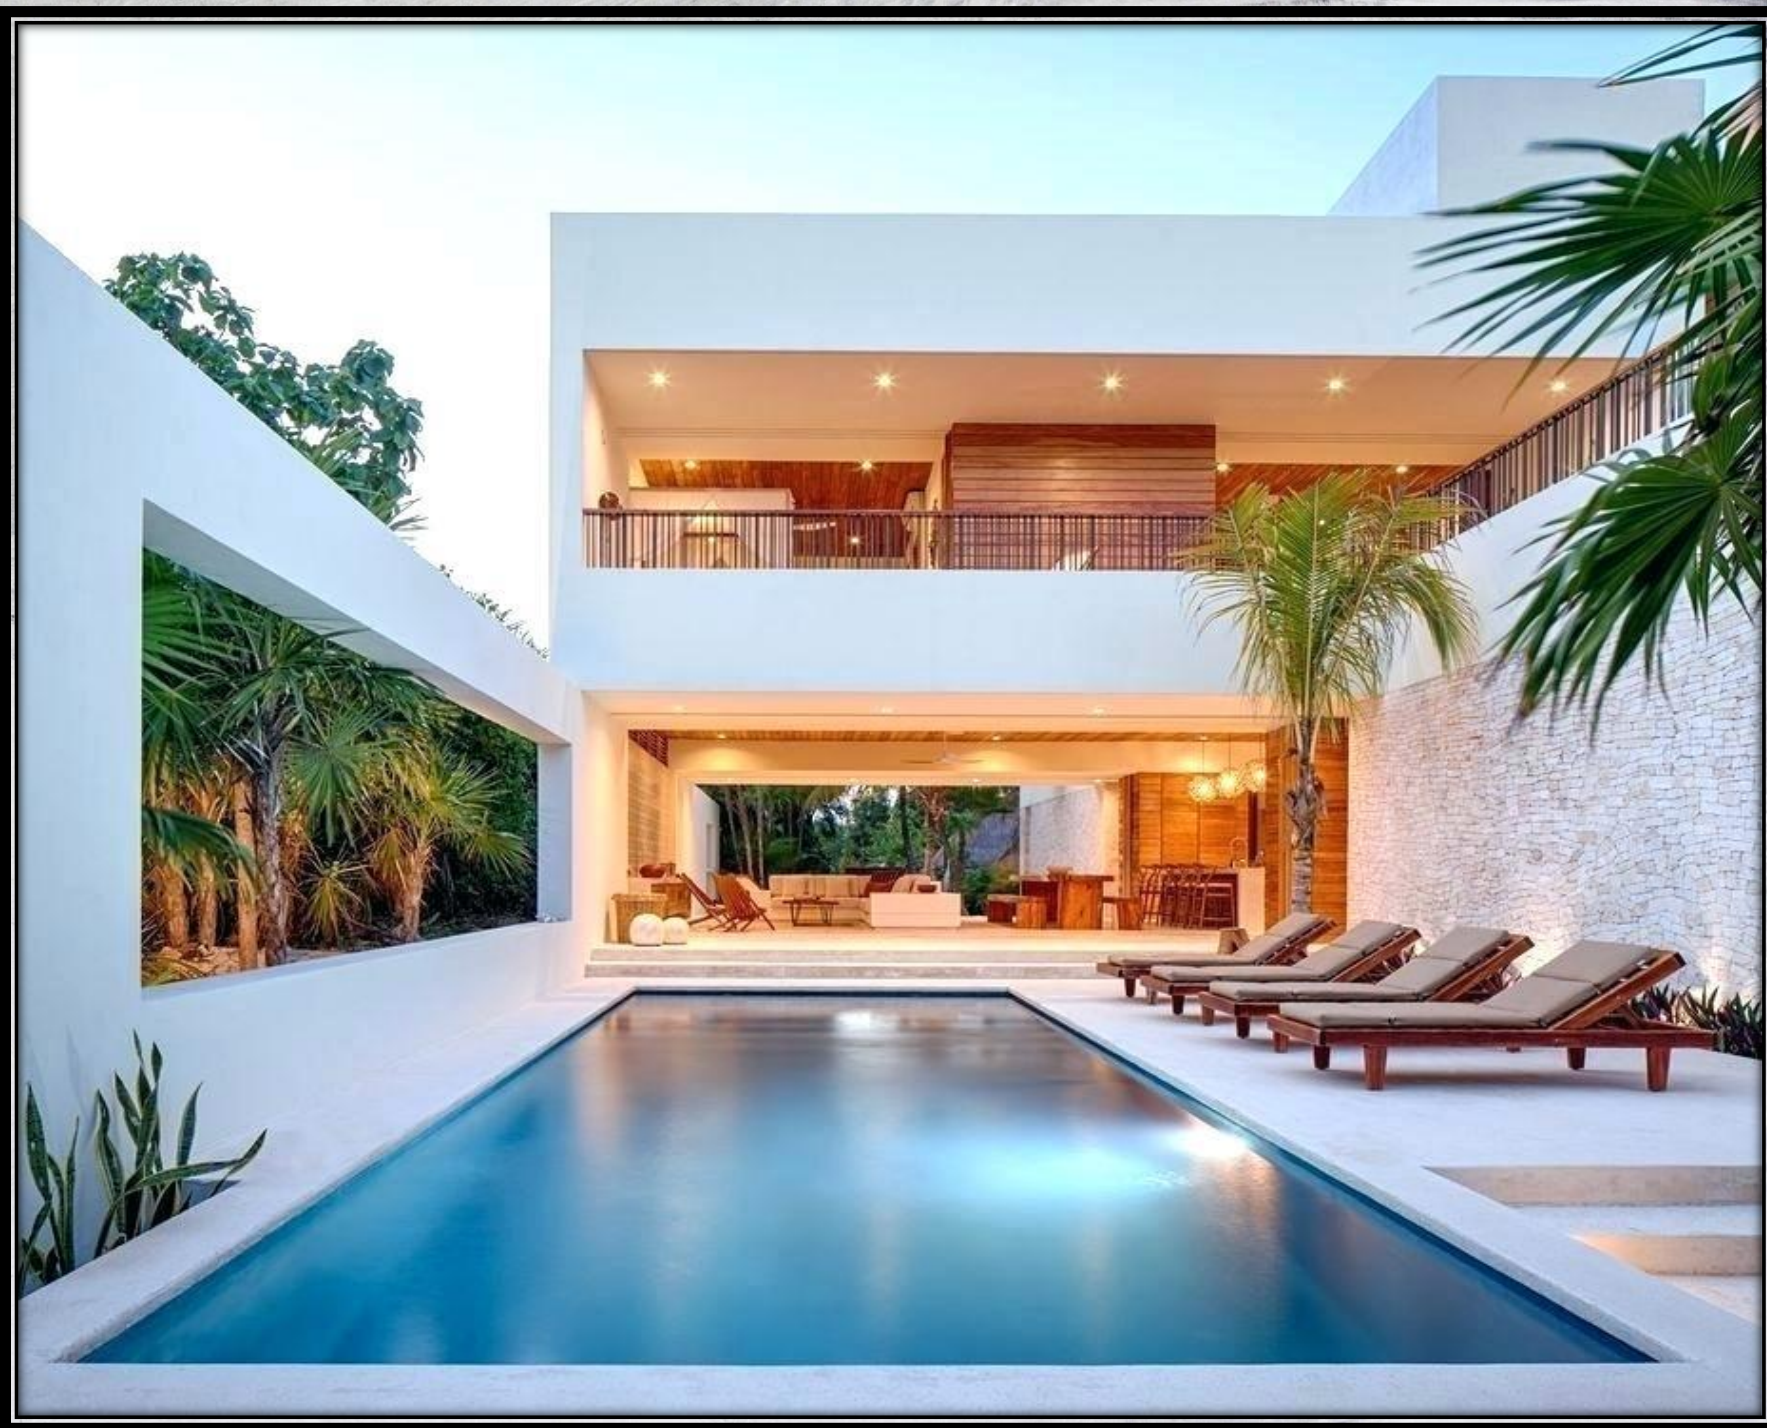

Mediterranean gardens stand out for their striking and distinctive colours. It's common to find plants with foliage of different shades of green that create an interesting visual dynamic in the composition of outdoor spaces that are designed in this style. Since the walls surrounding the gardens of Mediterranean houses as well as the patios and terraces near the garden are usually painted in white or other light tones, the splash of color from the plants and flowers helps to cut through the monotony of white.

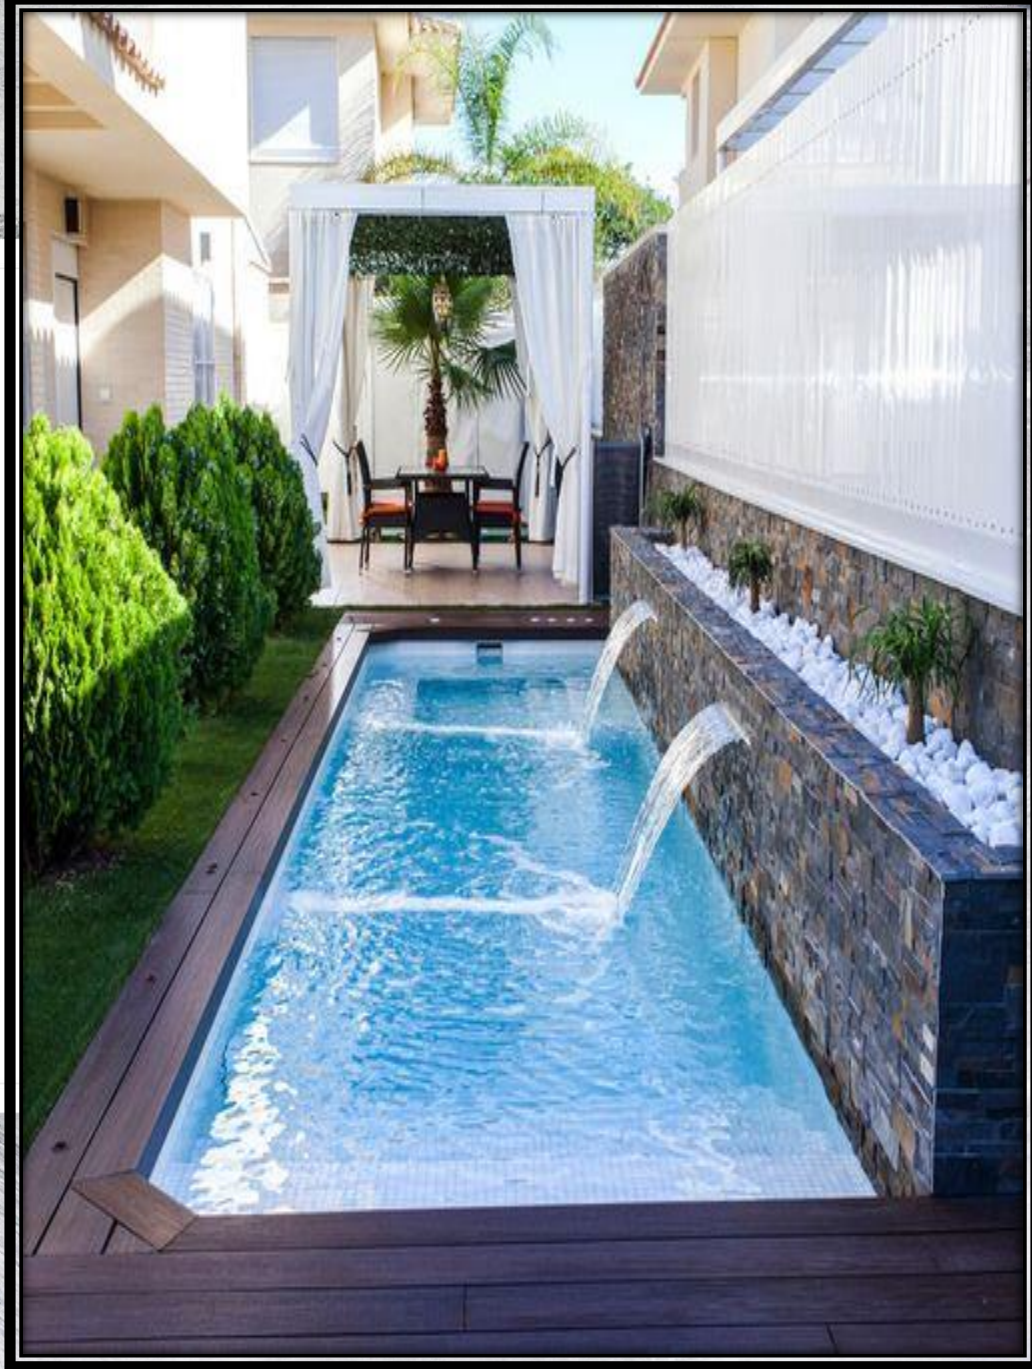

SWIMMING POOL

While infinity pools and garden pools are trending in India, thanks to the enviable villas in places such as Kerala, Rajasthan, Goa and as far as Kashmir (all of which you can rent as your holiday home), there is a new kind of swimming pool that is starting to gain popularity in the region. They are called natural pools or swimming ponds, this type of pond uses a natural filtration system with regeneration zones, which without the use of any chemicals or machines cleans and purifies the water to achieve a healthy level for swimming purposes. As a result, these pools are not only environment-friendly but are also a healthier alternative for the household. The natural filter consists of layers of shingle and other mineral-type materials, which the water is pumped through, in order to remove any debris. The plants growing in and around the pond also suck up any extra nutrients (algae), to prevent blooms occurring (which turn the water murky).

WINE CELLAR

A wine cellar is a necessity for anyone who collects wine for pleasure or investment. The good news is that it's no longer necessary to live in a grand country house to aspire of having a wine cellar. Thanks to modern options such as walk in wine rooms, silo-shaped cellars and bespoke climate controlled wine storage units, it's possible to assemble and house a substantial collection of at least several hundred bottles in an ordinary family home or city apartment. Easy Home Solutions presents a sampling of some classic and contemporary wine cellar ideas.

The most important role of the wine cellar is, of course, to store a collection of wines in optimum conditions. This means that the wine has to be away from direct sunlight and kept at a constant temperature and humidity. Ideally, however, the cellar should also be placed where the wine connoisseur can enjoy the taste of mature wine in peaceful and blissful surroundings, with a tasting area where bottles can be opened at leisure. And needless to say, the cellar should also be laid out in such a way as to display the collection of wine for others to admire.

There Are Some Wine Cellar Styles:-

- ❖ Classic wine cellar style
- ❖ Eclectic wine cellar style
- ❖ Industrial wine cellar style
- ❖ Scandinavian wine cellar style
